

Michael Trudeau has been an Economic Advisor and Monetary Specialist for over fifteen years. During those years Michael also began a career in talk radio broadcasting under the tutelage of CBS's own Charles Kuralt. "Kuralt (as Michael explains) taught me many things about investigative journalism but the biggest thing I learned working with Charles was, how to talk about complex issues in terms everyone can relate to and understand." Michael began his career as a monetary specialist with one of the largest precious metals firms in the country. His field of expertise is the coming Cashless Society.

Michael believes that we are headed for a "Cashless Society" perpetrated intentionally by the Federal Reserve and the U.S. Government. The reason is simple; to confiscate what little wealth still remains in the citizen's personal possession and to then eliminate the public's ability to engage in private transactions. Michael believes this is currently underway and will be accomplished through several means that will have been hidden from the populace. Some of these plans are already in place and astute citizens have already discovered several of them. These include the fairly obvious advent of "Smart Card" technology and also include many less obvious and more subtle manipulations. These less obvious influences include deliberately caused recession and boom cycles, as well as the push for credit card and debit card use through (among other things) laws and regulations such as the Omni-Bus drug smuggling act of 1980 and the "Know Your Customer" policies that are now in place due to the Patriot Act.

"We as a nation are being sucked into a Cashless Society and are heading to the government trough with reckless and wanton abandon." It is just a matter of time until we can conduct commerce or travel only through the use of micro-chipped smart cards which will be “welcomed with open arms,” Michael predicts. He also foresees that, once in place, the government will then offer up the problem with Smart Cards as well as the solution.” Smart Cards (we will be told and it will certainly be demonstrated) are rife with several types of fraud including the all too dreaded identity theft. To solve that, a better technology will be offered. It will be at that time that the government will begin the push for these Smart Card micro-chips to be imbedded directly under the skin. All of your personal information will be encoded on your microchip implant such as your medical history as well as any criminal history etc. The VeriChip Corporation located in Florida recently received FDA approval for these imbedded microchips. Your micro-chip will include the credits you’ve earned at your place of employment which will turn into debits as you conduct your daily transactions. You’ll use the credits to buy your food, medicines and all other daily necessities as well as pay your bills. Simply wave your arm under the scanner at the grocery store and you’re done shopping. What could be more convenient?

If the government should deem you as undesirable for any reason, they can simply deactivate your chip thereby eliminating your ability to conduct commerce except through barter or black market trading. This will also be the same problem if you refuse the chip to begin with. So, here’s the $64,000 question; “Should you take the chip?” Of course not! This may be the mark of the beast as told in Revelation! The U.S. Patent Office has already patented a tattoo bar code for the back of your hand to be used to buy and sell! Can the Cashless Society be circumvented? Of course it can! Ask the prohibitionists.

Plenty of citizens will “step out” of society at this time. They will be able to successfully do so with the very use of the underground barter economies.

Today we see these economies flourishing in illegal drugs and other black market trades. We, as a free nation, can prevail if we plan for our survival now. As individual citizens we need to begin storing some basic necessities such as long-term storable foods and medical supplies. Comfort items one might store for an upcoming hurricane for example only these items should be collected for a much longer duration of probably six months to a year. We need to begin storing some of our wealth in assets that can be traded under the government’s radar such as gold and silver coins. Gold and silver will be much sought after in an underground economy where cash is no longer an acceptable instrument of trade. This horrifying eventuality can be survived and perhaps even stopped, but we must take steps now.

Michael’s area of expertise is instructing people on how to protect their wealth from the constant dollar depreciation brought on by the manipulation of the Central Banks.

Michael is a noted and respected authority on the subject. He has authored numerous articles and has been an invited guest on well over fifty nationally syndicated radio programs. Michael is available for Radio interviews and speaking engagements upon request. Michael Trudeau is married, has three children and resides in the state of Wisconsin.
